BUENOS AYRES

Monthly Retrospect.

With the return of Spring our hopes revive; and if we cannot boast of great achievements during the month, it is something to be able to say, that we have hopeful indications for the next.

The amount done for the local market has been rather limited; owing in part to the want of assortments, and in part to the rigid interdict, interposed by impassable roads, between the Capital and the rural districts.

For articles in demand prices have shown a tendency to improvement, and the sudden and extreme revulsion in our money market, is all in favour of the local dealers. If the money market settles down about the present rate, it will tend to facilitate transactions, and restore the confidence that has so long been kept in suspense, by causes beyond the control of buyers and sellers.

As the wool harvest is now about to commence, we may expect a voracious demand for the country districts; were it only to make some amends for the privations to which they have been subjected during the winter months.

During the earlier part of the month, the dealers for the interior showed a good disposition, and a brisk business would have been done, but for the apprehension of a hostile collision. It turns out fortunately, that these fears were utterly unfounded; and accordingly inquiries are again being made, that give a tone to the market, and hold out a brighter prospect for the ensuing month, should no new complications interfere.

In looking at the list of vessels in port, it might be inferred that we have received heavy additions to our existing stocks. As regards manufactured goods it is not so. Most of the vessels have brought general cargoes, with a lower proportion of fine goods, than is usual for this market. So much is this the case that the complaints of bad assortments are unabated; and we fancy that even the deposit stores are not quite so crowded as they were six or eight months ago.

If this opinion be correct, it is probable, with the marked improvement in the value of our circulating medium, that our market may gradually acquire a more buoyant and healthy tone: and we dare say the late experience will serve as a salutary lesson against the danger of future gluts.

For Paraguay very little, in fact scarcely anything has been done; and here we have another illustration of the baneful influence of political agitation on commercial interests. In the prospect of a rupture with Brazil and the Confederation, the resources that should have fomented public commerce, were invested in war steamers, armament, and other hostile preparatives; and in these she has perhaps forestalled her available means for more than a single season. Happily all these causes of disquietude have at last disappeared; and despite her isolated situation, we believe Paraguay is destined very shortly to occupy a prominent place in the group of South American Republics.

Articles of Daily Consumption.

During the past month we have had frequent and heavy arrivals, and the stocks in first hands, that is, of importers or speculators, must be very large. Still most of the cargoes are bought to arrive, and the famine prices indicate anything but a glut. So dexterously in this department managed, that an improvement of full 15 per cent in the value of our circulating medium, is quite imperceptible at least in the retail market.

We need not attempt to unravel the mysteries of the craft, and resign the solution of the problem to the slow and silent, but certain operation of time. If we can afford to go on importing and paying at the rate we have done for a considerable time past, it is a proof that Buenos Ayres, possesses greater internal resources, than she has yet got credit for.

As regards eatables and drinkables, it is unquestionable that the consumption of foreign imports has increased at least five fold during the last five years; and as the population has not increased at the same ratio, it follows as a necessary consequence, that the style of living must have undergone a great change. No doubt that is the case as regards families in the capital, and more so still with respect to many in the country districts. With the enhanced value of stock, it is no longer the rule to slaughter animals ad libitum: and hence instead of depending almost exclusively on beef and mutton, as in days of yore, hundreds of families purchase a large proportion of their necessary supplies: giving an increased consumption of imported articles in that department, of perhaps a hundred fold. It is here chiefly we must seek the solution of the apparent enigma of the sustained high prices, notwithstanding the enormous importations; that would otherwise have glutted the market, and reduced profits to their lowest ebb. Rural property has undergone so many, so sudden and extreme changes, that past experience is of no use as a guide to decide on the necessities or the resources of the present.

Looking to the arrivals of the month, we must admit that our stores have received a liberal reinforcement; but when we look to the movement, and especially to the retail prices, we feel no apprehension for our purveyors; who have enjoyed a long and rich harvest.

In the course of a few weeks, when the roads in the suburbs become passable, we may expect a brisk demand for building materials; and a few cargoes of good American flour, will certainly leave something handsome over freight and charges. These we consider the safest and most inviting, but as things have latterly been going, it is hardly possible to err.

Export Produce.

With vessels daily leaving in ballast, it would be unreasonable to expect any large accumulations of stock. It has been with difficulty that cattle have been got in during the last three months, to supply to the consumption of the capital; and of course the Saladeristas neither would nor could work.

Tallow is perhaps the only article that has not found its natural level since the termination of the late war. Of that there may be a few hundred pipes on hand, for which the holders ask 18 or 19 rials silver, a really nominal price; for we believe very few transactions have latterly been made, and we may safely say none at all since the arrival of the present Mail, in that or in any thing else; "the sweet yellow darlings" of course always excepted. We have heard of gold manias in California and Australia, and we see them in petto in the Bolsa of Buenos Ayres. In the maddening excitement of this engrossing game, real business is in danger of being swamped, with common sense and public morality to boot.

With gold oscillating from 315 to 375, it is impossible that any man can form a rational calculation; and hence all business, import and export alike, is completely at a stand.

The Estanciero who received 375 dollars for a fat ox on Monday, cannot comprehend why he should accept of 315 for the same class of animals on Saturday of the same week; and yet this is all the Saladerista can afford to pay.

This is the real difficulty, that has reduced our saladero operations to zero; at which they are likely to remain for a considerable number of weeks: and with the consequent scarcity of produce on the one hand, and the superabundance of vessels in port, on the other, we need not expect prices to decline fast or far in the mean time, even were advices from foreign markets more unfavourable than they are.

With regard to wools, some transactions have been made for the ensuing clip, at extremely high figures; say from 15 to 20 per cent above those of last year, exorbitantly high as they were reckoned. At the present or late rates of exchange, it is impossible that the opening prices can be maintained, and the consequence must be, what indeed we already witness, a temporary suspension of all transactions.

In short we have never seen so many causes conspire simultaneously to upset and derange our produce market in all its departments. At present we are doing nothing, and it is impossible to say when we may do anything, or what we may do next. Compared with this "the glorious uncertainty of the law" is all a joke.

Social and Political Aspect.

In the first of these we cannot announce any improvement since our last. On the contrary we have had some ominous manifestations of party feeling, and in the quarter where it was least expected. The inviolability of the legislator has been attacked and outraged in the sanctuary of the law; with yells of violence and extermination, that recall the very worst of by-gone times. These are bad in themselves and can lead to nothing that is good; and when we see such means brought to bear for or against public measures of the highest importance, we are driven to the forlorn conclusion that "there is something rotten in the State of Denmark." In these manifestations we see the conflagration smouldering in its embers; and experience tells us how easily it may any day be fanned into a flame.

The law creating ten millions of public funds to cover the deficit of the present year was sanctioned under the pressure of these exceptional means, and must therefore be held a questionable triumph for the ministry,

The bill sanctioning the sale of 100 square leagues of public lands, after being the cause of an unseemly alteration, has undergone modifications that are scouted by the partisans of the Government; and supposing it sanctioned in its present form we foresee a host of difficulties and dangers in its practical application.

Add to these symptoms and causes of disunion, the unsatisfactory state of our frontier defences, and it must be confessed that our social aspect is not so harmonious and cheering as could be desired.

In our political relations, nothing we believe has occured to alter the statu quo. Some of the dissident chiefs have repaired to the Parana, and that appears the only foundation to the sinister rumours to which we alluded in our last.

General Lopez has been elected, installed and recognised as the Constitutional Governor of Sta. Fé; and so far as yet appears, co-operates harmoniously with the National Authorities.

Our opinion is that President Urquiza, for the present, has no serious intention, of an armed invasion; but he may probably put in requisition all the appliances of diplomatic intrigues, backed by differential duties, and other means of indirect hostility; and even these are sufficiently formidable to damp the spirit of commercial enterprise.

So much for the sterile subject of politics; and we now proceed to redeem our pledge of last week, presenting to our readers a translation of the interesting report submitted by the Committee of Management of our Gas Company, to the Shareholders.

GAS COMPANY.

THE COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT TO THE SHAREHOLDERS.

As this important undertaking now approches its termination, the Directory considers the opportunity most favourable for presenting the Shareholders, to submit to them an account of its present situation and auspicious prospects. It will enter into the details frankly and truthfully, that a correct opinion may be formed of its present position; omitting labours and difficulties of public notoriety, which, though inseparable from the initiation of an enterprise of this magnitude, have required all their faith and perseverance, in struggling to realise an idea, that has supplied to this City an establishment which reflects credit on its advanced civilization.

The contract entered into with Messrs. E. T. Bellhouse & Co. for the erection of the works, has been now completed with very trifling exceptions; and it is an act of justice towards the Contractors, to record here the due fulfilment of their contract, both as regards the prompt execution of the works, and the quality of the materials employed. It is due to their liberality, and the indefatigable activity of our Engineer Mr. William Bragge, appointed superintendant of the works, by mutual consent, that the distribution of gas for public and private consumption was commenced on the 25th of May, and has since continued with uninterrupted regularity.

In the prosecution of these works, carried on with the vigor and activity, indispensable to the completion of so useful an enterprise, the Directory has encountered causes of increased expense, unforeseen in the estimate, notwithstanding the precision of the calculations, as we have now ascertained. As the Shareholders will readily comprehend, this may be considered inevitable in every undertaking, and it has been so in the present important affair, for certain and unavoidable causes, that have absorbed part of our capital, as we proceed to explain.

The capital of the Company was fixed at 6,000,000 current dollars; which was deemed sufficient to erect the establishment, without having recourse to ulterior compromises.

The decision of the Government that the site shoud be 70 varas nearer the River than was first contemplated, imposed upon us a serious increase of expense, that had not been reckoned upon. The whole of the long line of sea wall had to be made higher and stronger than was originally intended, and the immense embankment required by the nature of the ground, cost upwards of 750,000 dollars; that is, 500,000 dollars more than the original estimate.

The contract for the works was made in pounds sterling, the only way in which it could be made; and the alterations in the exchange that have taken place, being uniformly adverse, as is notorious, to our capital in currency, there will be a loss of about 500,000 dollars, in the funds remitted to England and the Agent's commission.

Another outlay that could not be calculated, and which the Directory is convinced the Shareholders will sanction, is the necessity of constantly keeping on hand a supply of coals, more than sufficient to meet any accidental scarcity, arising from shipwreck or other unforeseen causes; and for which special purpose the Committee considers a reserved fund indispensable, the advance at present made amounting to upwards of 350,000 dollars.

The Shareholders are aware of the efforts made by private interest, to deprive the Company of the privilege of fitting up private houses for the consumption of gas. It was attempted by representations to the Government, through the press, and by every means, to obtain for other parties this important branch, which will be valuable and lucrative for many years to the Company; and it affords the Committee much satisfaction that it has been able to baffle the intrigues and suggestions, by which it was attempted to prejudice the interests of the Shareholders, and that it has secured for them the benefits to which they are justly entitled. The increasing demand for gas, and the practical experience the Directory has acquired of the benefits that result from this department of the business, justify its proceedings, and compensate it for the steps taken in checking the exorbitant pretensions of others.

To meet the requirements of private illumination, the Committee has already invested the sum of 5,000 pounds sterling, and the orders remitted to England will entail upon it an outlay of nearly the same amount; and though these sums are reimbursed with a high rate of profit, they require nevertheless an active capital that must be provided.

These reimbursements are gradual, and henceforth the investments will not be so considerable; but the positive requirements and the liabilities to which the Company is now subject, for the reasons assigned, render it necessary and expedient that the capital of the Association should be increased by the approximate sum of 1,500,000 current dollars, in the manner and form the Shareholders may decide. This sum of 1,500,000 dollars will be necessary in the course of the ensuing six months, to cover the liabilities of the Company, as will appear from the following:—

Showing a deficit of £ 15,000, approximately 1,500,000 dollars, to cover the liabilities of the Company.

Now, Gentlemen, before presenting you a statement of the flattering and hopeful aspect of the Society,—which has the honor of being the first of its kind and magnitude that has been carried into effect by private enterprise in this country, and with the prospect of a certain and progressive aggrandisement, the Committee must remind you that, in consequence of its very novelty there was a marked indifference on the part of the public during the progress of the works, and even after the establishment was in operation. Elsewhere on commencing the public illumination there is always supplied a number of private lights; which besides being an indication of the patronage upon which the enterprise may reckon, contributes directly towards the expenses, which are as great at the commencement as afterwards, since the illumination of 10 houses involves the same expenses as that of 100; here on the contrary, we commenced without a single private light, as will appear from the following comparative table; from which you will also have the satisfaction of seeing how different the disposition now is, and how general the enthusiasm has become, since the public has been disabused of the false alarms created to injure the Company, and has been convinced of the solidity of the works, and of the utility and cheapness of this brilliant light. In May 1856, when the establishment commenced operations, the private houses lighted with gas were:

	Houses.	Lights.
In May	2	6
" June	65	521
" July	51	217
" August	108	670
	226	1,414

The orders now entered in our books are sufficient to employ till the end of the year, all our available workmen; but as there is a daily increase in this demand, we are bound to provide as early as possible additional workmen and materials. The Company may safely calculate on a monthly increase of 100 houses for a length of time.

According to this progressive scale, by the end of June 1857, we will have at least 1,100 houses, consuming 1.584,000 cubic feet of gas per month.

The monthly income, exclusive of the sale of the gas, will then be 158,000 dollars, with a clear profit of more than 50 per cent on the gross amount; that is to say, about 80,000 dollars per month, which will be something more than 1 per cent per month on a capital of 7½ millions. Without including in this calculation the profits arising from the sale of necessaries, ornaments and workmanship in fitting up private houses.

This calculation is not based upon speculation or uncertain data; our probability of selling gas is only limited by our means of supplying not merely gas, but pipes and the fittings up for the interior.

We include in this calculation the coke and other residues; the sale of the coke, which is disposed of as fast as it is produced, the proceeds nearly covering the cost of the coals, merits a special mention. Moreover our Engineer is arranging to prepare an artificial coal, composed of the residue of the coke itself with tar, which will readily be disposed of to the steamers.

The theatre of Colon, which of itself is equal to a hundred private houses, and all the principal coffehouses and hotels, are awaiting our workmen, and the arrival of the articles we have ordered from England.

Up to the present time, a considerable sum of what was intended for the erection of the works has been devoted to the purchase of sundry articles for the lighting of private houses, and the wages of workmen; and this will now have to be gradually reimbursed.

By the end of December we shall have received not less than £ 7,500 from this source, leaving a profit of £ 2,500. During the same period we shall have received for the sale of gas and coke not less than 250,000 dollars, of which one half at least will be clear profit. Thus the profits to the 31st. of December cannot fall short of 375,000 dollars, or say 5 per cent upon a capital of 7½ millions for the first six months, which as has been shown, is the most disadvantageous period, as the same amount of expenses is incurred as when a considerably greater number of private lights are in regular operation.

The public illumination does not yet produce to the Company what might be expected, nevertheless it already covers the cost and expenses. We immediately expect from England the lamps to be placed in all the paved streets, where they are yet wanting, in consequence of an additional lamp being added in every three agreed upon in the Contract.

48,601 yards of pipes have been placed in the public streets as follows:

Of 12 inch pipes contracted	2,420 yards, laid down		2,380
" 9 " "	3,280 " " "		3,195
" 6 " "	9,566 " " "		9,961
" 4 " "	13,540 " " "		13,561
" 3 " "	28,500 " " "		25,844
	51,300		48,601
	48,600

Showing a surplus of 2,700 yards to complete the amount contracted for, and besides an excess of 520 yards, in favour of the Contractor; which will be deposited in the establishment, since they cannot be laid down till the streets are paved.

The evident progression which we have shown, and which all the Shareholders can easily comprehend, affords the consolatory assurance that in the ensuing six months the dividend to be expected will not fall short of 1 per cent per month; and for the future, with the protection of the public, and the régularity with which it will be administered in all its departments, it is clearly proved that the Gas Company is the establishment that affords the safest guarantees, with the highest profits, to the capitals embarked in it.

With this persuasion the Committee hopes that the Shareholders will not hesitate in immediately adopting the resolution, that the requisite means be provided for carrying their enterprise into full effect.

The Committee places their books, and all the accounts of the Administration, at the disposal of the Shareholders for their examination and inspection. In all its acts and deliberations its only object has been the interest of the Company, which it has the glory of having initiated and realized, and it aspires to obtain a testimonial of your approbation, as the noblest reward of its labours.

The Buenos Ayres Gas Company.

We insert in our columns this day, a full translation of the report issued to the Shareholders by the Directive Commission. From this important document it will be seen that the affairs of the Gas Company are now in a highly satisfactory state, and that the future prospects are such as to give confidence to all interested in the undertaking. We observe with gratification that the Directive Commission pay a just tribute to Mr. William Bragge, the Engineer of the undertaking, and to Messrs E. T. Bellhouse & Co., of Manchester, who have executed the contract for the Works. From our own personal observations we can confirm this well merited eulogy, and it is a graceful act on the part of the Directive commision thus promptly to recognise the value of these exertions, which have resulted in the completion of the works connected with this great undertaking in so excellent a manner and in so short a time.

In June 1855 the Engineer concluded the contract with Messrs Bellhouse in England; on the 25th of May 1856 Buenos Ayres was first publicly lighted with gas; and at the present time there are 360 private consumers using about 27000 cubic feet of gas per 24 hours, and there are 500 street lamps, consuming about 2300 cubic feet per night, making a total consumption for each 24 hours of about 29,300 cubic feet.

Of course the two large gas holders, the fifty retorts, and other portions of the apparatus, now ready for work, are more than sufficient for the production of the quantity of gas just mentioned. It is considered most probable that the the consumption in twelve months from present date will be increased to about 100,000 cubic feet per 24 hours, a quantity which can easily be supplied by the present apparatus.

We have been informed that the consumption of gas in Buenos Ayres for the year ending August 1st 1857, will probably amount to 25,000,000 cubic feet, the gross receipts for which will, at 20s per thousand be £25,000. We are not so far in the secrets of the Company as to be able to give the probable expenses and profits, but judging from the largeness of the sum just named we may anticipate for the shareholders a larger dividend than that mentioned in the Report, namely 1 per cent per month.

The price of Gas per thousand feet at Rio Janeiro is eighteen shillings, and the daily consumption for the year round exceeds 200,000 cubic feet. Taking into account that the consumption ot Rio is above six times that of this city, the charge of twenty shilliugs seems reasonable.

As compared with the charges for gas in Europe the rates of charge here and at Rio seem moderate, considering the high prices of materials and labour.

Let us return to the report; the Directive commission show that it will be beneficial to the Company to have a greater amount of capital introduced into the enterprise. The sum of six millions of dollars, money current [£60,000] was fixed at the outset as the amount of capital required for establishing the works, and this sum would have been sufficient had not unforeseen expenses arisen. These causes of additional expenses are as follows:—Firstly, the removal of the works, by resolution of the Government, seventy yards nearer the river than first intended. Secondly, the payment of the contract sum in English money, whilst the calculations were made and the capital raised in paper money, this additional expense arising from the peculiarly unfavourable state of Exchange. Thirdly the necessity of having a large deposit of coal, to prevent disappointment by non-arrival of cargoes and fluctuation of prices. And lastly, the purchase of materials for the illumination of houses stores, shops, and public buildings, in accordance with the privilege granted to the Company.

The whole of these items combined will require an augmentation of the capital of the company from six million of dollars; [£60,000] to seven and a half millions [£75,000] and the Directive Commission recommend that steps be taken to raise £15,000 additional capital.

On Tuesday last the recommendation to raise additional capital was considered at a public meeting of the Shareholders, about 35 of whom attended and took part in the proceedings, It was resolved that the Directors be empowered to draw from the Bank on the security of the Company's wolks and property, the sum of £15,000 for present use and that they negotiate a loan on interest, in England for the same amouht with wnich to aepay tse Bank.

Power was also given t? raise the money or part of it by issue of new shares, or any other method which the judgement of .he Direteors should suggest.

Condecorations.

In the Gazette of the 2d August, we find a list of the British officers, who received condecorations from the Emperor of the French, for distinguished services in the Crimea, and obtained Her Majesty's gracious permission to wear the same. Among these we are proud to see the name of Dr. George Fair, dubbed a "Knight of the Legion of Honour."

Dr. Fair is son of Thomas Fair Esq., well known to, and universally respected by the older British residents in Buenos Ayres, and who still cherish a lively interest in all that concerns the honour and prospects of his family.

Married.

On the 25th inst., by the Rev. Mr. Ford, B. C. of this place, Mr. Thomas Simons, of Fringford, Oxfordshire, England, to Miss Eliza Malcolm, eldest daughter of Mr. John Malcolm, of Stirlingshire Scotland, a resident of more than thirty years in Buenos Ayres.

The Market has been so unsettled all week, that we dispense with giving quotations. At the hour of going to press, ounces are selling at from 337 to 338; having been as low during the week as 317, and as high as 346.

HERE IS YOUR REMEDY.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

A MOST MIRACULOUS CURE OF BAD LEGS, AFTER 43 YEAR'S SUFFERING.

Extract of a letter from Mr. William Galpin, of 70, St. Mary's Street, Weymouth, dated May 15th, 1851.

To Professor Holloway:

Sir,—At the age of 18, my wife (who is now 61) caught a violent cold, which settled in her legs, and ever since that time they have been more or less sore, and greatly inflamed. Her agonies were distracting, and for months together she was deprived entirely of rest and sleep. Every remedy that medical men advised was tried, but without effect; her health suffered severely, and the state of her legs was terrible. I had often read your advertisements, and advised her to try your Pills and Ointment; and, as a last resource, after every other remedy had proved useless, she consented to do so. She commenced six weeks ago, and, strange to relate, is now in good health. Her legs are painless, without seam or scar, and her sleep sound and undisturbed. Could you have witnessed the sufferings of my wife during the last 43 years, and contrast them with her present enjoyment of health, you would indeed feel delighted in having been the means of so greatly alleviating the sufferings of a fellow creature.

(Signed) WILLIAM GALPIN.

A PERSON 70 YEARS OF AGE CURED OF A BAD LEG OF 30 YEARS' STANDING.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. William Abbs, Builder of Gas Ovens, of Rushcliffe, near Huddersfield, dated May 31st, 1851.

To Professor Holloway:

Sir,—I suffered for a period of 30 years from a bad leg, the result of two or three different accidents, at Gas Works; accompanied by scorbutic symptons. I had recourse to a variety of medical advice, without deriving any benefit, and was even told that the leg must be amputated, yet, in opposition to that opinion, your Pills and Ointment have effected a complete cure in so short a time, that few who had not witnessed it would credit the fact.

(Signed) WILLIAM ABBS.

The truth of this statement can be verified by Mr. W. P. England, Chemist, 13, Market Street, Huddersfield.

A DREADFUL BAD BREAST CURED IN ONE MONTH.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Frederick Turner, of Penshurst, Kent, dated December 13th, 1850.

To Professor Holloway:

Dear Sir,—My wife had suffered from bad Breasts for more than six months, and during the whole period had the best medical attendance, but all to no use. Having before healed an awful wound in my own leg by your unrivalled medicine, I determined again to use your Pills and Ointment, and therefore gave them a trial in her case, and fortunate it was I did so, for in less than a month a perfect cure was effected, and the benefit that various other branches of my family have derived from their use is really astonishing. I now strongly recommend them to all my friends.
